

Holiday postcard sent by Aristotle to his daughter Pythias from the university he founded in Athens.

Φρομ ηερε Ι χαν σεε Ηελιοσ, τηε Συν γοδ, σο χλεαρλιψ μοπινγ αχροσσ τηε σκιψ ον ηιο δαιλψ ρουνδ. Ι χαν επεν σεε τηε ηορσεσ πυλλιנג ηιο χηαριοτ. Ηοω χουλδ Αρισταρχηυσ τηινκ τηιο ισ νοτ σο?
Πραισε το Ηελιοσ.

Ψουρ δεποτεδ Φατηερ
Αριστοτλε

Πυθτιασ

Σταγιρυσ

Μαχεδονια

Holiday postcard sent by Aristotle to his daughter Pythias from the university he founded in Athens.

From here I can see Helios, the Sun god, so clearly moving across the sky on his daily round. I can even see the horses pulling his chariot. How could Aristarchus think this is not so?

Praise to Helios.

Your devoted Father

Aristotle

PYTHIAS

STAGIRUS

MACEDONIA